IPA extends OSS iPedia for Worldwide Users

TOKYO, JAPAN – April 25th, 2007 – IPA, a Japanese independent administrative agency, today announced that the new edition of OSS iPedia, a web-based database detailing open source software, was made available.

In the new edition of OSS iPedia, two categories, 75 case studies and 153 reports about various OSS performance evaluations, are written in English and users can submit their own case studies and performance evaluation reports in English. Users can read some interesting reports which resulted from the research efforts of ETRI (Korea Electronics and Telecommunications Research Institute), for example.
